

BIOGRAPHY

CIVIL AIR PATROL, US AIR FORCE AUXILIARY

LIEUTENANT COLONEL JEFFREY W. ROGERS

Lt Col Jeffrey W. Rogers, CAP is the Commander of Effingham Cadet Squadron in Effingham County, Georgia. As the commander, he is responsible for organizing, training, and providing members in order to support all three Congressionally assigned missions under 36 USC §403: Cadet Programs, Aerospace Education, and Emergency Services. Through this, Effingham Cadet Squadron provides on the job training for local teens and adults.

Lt Col Rogers joined as a Cadet in California, earning the Billy Mitchell Award (#53908) before transitioning to Senior in 2006. He earned his Bachelor of Science in Organizational Leadership from Biola University, commissioning in the US Army at California State University Fullerton. Since joining in 2002, he's been assigned to various command and staff positions in both CAP and the US Army. Prior to his current position, he was the Internal Aerospace Education Officer in Rocky Mountain Region, and an instructor for the online National Corporate Learning Course.
